SOURCE [REDACTED]

1. Eight biplanes and 36 twin-engine aircraft were standing at the southern and eastern edges of the Welzow (N 52°1' 44") airfield.* Features of the planes could not be recognized because of the distance. There was no flying between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., although the weather was fair.*
2. A new braced radio mast, about 12 meters high, was erected on the edge of the sodded landing field.  There was no construction work. There were no hangars.
